Mrs. Charles L. Bolinger Passes
Away in Cincinnati Hospital

Mrs. Sallie I. Bolinger, wife of Mr. Charles
N. Bolinger, died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock while undergoing an operation for apendicitis in the Jewish Hospital, Cincinnati.
She had been a patient sufferer for years, and bore with Christian resignation and fortitude her bodily troubles.

Mrs. Bolinger was formerly Miss Sallie I.
Kilpatrick and was born in Lewisburg, September 26th, 1860, where she resided all her life.
She was a consistent and devoted member of the Baptist Church.

Besides her husband she is survived by three brothers and one sister—Mrs. Jennie Carpenter of Lewisburg, William Kilpatrick of Mt. Sterling, Frank Kilpatrick of Lexington, and David Kilpatrick of Higginsonport, O.
The remains were brought here last night and conveyed to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Newell in Limestone street.
Funeral will take place tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock from Lewisburg Baptist Church, with services by Rev. M. B. Adams of Frankfort.
Interment in Lewisburg Cemetery.

Robert Barnett Filed Suit Against
Dr. Leslie Brand For That Amount

Robert Barnett, administrator of Florence Barnett, deceased, has filed suit in the Mason Circuit Court against
Dr. Leslie Brand.

The petition recites that by reason of the carelessness, gross negligence, unskillful and unprofessional treatment of the defendant, the said Flo-

FOR PRESIDENT,

NOTICE TO DELINQUENTS.

Owing to the fact that many of our subscribers on the Rural routes are dropping behind in their accounts and the amounts thus continue to increase from month to month, and that a large number of them ignore our repeated demands for a settlement, we have tired of sending THE PUBLIC LEDGER this way and then realizing nothing in return. Besides, it is very expensive to us and a violation of the postal laws; therefore we will send another statement to each delinquent and then take such legal action necessary to get what is due us and at the same time meet the requirements of the Postoffice Department. Respectfully,

A. F. CURRAN.

The Standard Oil Company is now reaping twenty separate dividends where but one grew before.—Detroit Free Press.

The New York Journal of Commerce is a free trade paper, but it opposes the Democratic bill to abolish the tariff on sugar on the ground that this is one of the most productive sources of needed revenue, about the most readily and cheaply collected, and altogether the most widely diffused in its effect of all tariff duties; for everybody contributes and the burden is slight. The same paper rubs it into the Democrats for trying to make up the loss of revenue from the proposed removal of the sugar duties by providing for an income tax under the guise of a special excise tax, and says it antagonizes the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in declaring that an income tax that was not apportioned among the States according to population was unconstitutional.

The latest tariff scheme of the Democrats in Congress designed as a bid for the votes of the "consuming public," is to be called a "breakfast table free list." It is intended to include dressed meats, dressed fowls, butter, potatoes, cocoa, chocolate and other articles used on every day table. Coffee and tea already are on the free list. The avowed purpose of such a measure would be to reduce the cost of living in the cities; but if it could be enacted it would deal a severe blow to the farmers and market gardeners. It is reported that even a majority of the Democratic representatives are against the proposed bill on the ground that it would deprive the farmer of whatever benefit he now gets from the tariff. Besides, they do not forget that the farmers have great voting strength.

It is stated by Washington correspondents that the Democrats and the lone Socialist congressman who had several "strike children" brought from Lawrence to appear before a Congressional committee to expose the "iniquities" of the mill owners and a protective tariff, obtained much information of a kind they did not want when the Lawrence officials gave their testimony of the conditions during the strike. There have been some interesting revelations from other sources. While the strike-leaders were issuing appeals for funds and "for bread for our starving children," six of the leaders were enjoying a dinner at a restaurant costing $7 per plate. A New York muckraker who went to Lawrence to get material for a sensational story about the strike was accompanied by a photographer who paid several children of mill workers 10c apiece to dress up in rags and pose for a picture illustrating the extreme destitution prevailing in the strikers' families. It is this kind of humbug that proves so effective in drawing contributions from soft-hearted people.

The Boston Herald says: "Not since 1896, when in the opening of the presidential campaign everybody, except in this little corner of the country, avowed himself favorable to silver—and against the rich man's money—has there been so strong a call for the sober and deliberate thought of the American people. It used to be said then that had the election been held a week after the conventions Bryan would surely have been successful. So now, had Roosevelt been 'sprung' on the country about a week before preference primaries, he would have made a marvelous showing. But the tumult and the shouting are stilled in the light of sober and intelligent reflection."

The investigation mania is still on in Washington, with special reference to their political effect. The Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript says: "The truth is that politics holds the stage in Washington to the exclusion of everything else. Even in Congress the question is not so much 'What shall we do?' as 'What will be the chief issue in the presidential campaign?' According to all the signs, it will be the tariff, unless possibly the final lineup places the fabric of representative government in danger. Aside from this consideration, it is likely to be the tariff because that whole subject probably will be left over for the next Congress to handle. True, the Democrats are grinding out tariff bills, but the Senate combinations of last summer are not likely to be repeated."

Arguments were heard by the Board of General Appraisers in New York, March 14, in the free pulp case. The counsel for importers of paper and wood pulp from European countries, contended that under the favored nation clause those countries should be allowed the privilege now enjoyed by Canada under the reciprocity agreement. Deputy Attorney General Payne argued for the Government that the so-called favored nation clauses were not contracts but mere moral obligations between nations; that they were not self-executing, and that, if they were self-executing they were unconstitutional in that the President of the United States and the Senate have no right thus to make tariff laws. Finally, he maintained, Canada is not a nation or State in the strict sense of the word. It is thought probable that the case will finally be carried to the Customs Court of Appeals and possibly to the Supreme Court.

A direct appeal to the sane and sober sense of the people has not lost its force. Massachusetts is not to be swept from the old moorings of Constitutional Government by the sudden gust of political typhoons, if the enthusiastic reception of President Taft's speech by the members of the Legislature and the crowded galleries is any evidence of the tempered thought of the state. The great reception accorded to President Taft was not prompted merely by respect for his high office. It was a spontaneous tribute to his manly character and an enthusiastic endorsement of his attitude toward great public issues which transcend partisan lines and bear directly upon the very framework of our Government. "I favor it and welcome it," said President Taft, in regard to the Presidential primary. This direct and emphatic statement ought to put a stop to the persistent efforts on the part of the local Roosevelt leaders to misrepresent the attitude of the President and his supporters in reference to a popular vote for presidential candidates.

Mrs. Longstreet's Appeal to the American People

One of the greatest scenic wonders of the world—an heirloom which has come down to us from the immortal ages—Tallulah Falls, in the mountains of Georgia, is today in the clutches of an iniquitous water power trust, known as the Georgia Power Company, which, in seeking to squeeze unearned millions out of these magnificent water falls in the wonderland of Dixie, will rob the Western world of one of its richest natural assets unless restrained by the sovereign voices of the people.

This soulless water power trust having bought surrounding property, has seized and seeks to destroy Tallulah Falls, in an unrivaled gorge of the Blue Ridge mountains of Georgia. This queen of water falls belongs not alone to three millions of Georgians, but to a hundred millions of Americans and to the generations to come, whose vested rights are sacred. Not one whit more so, were the ark of the covenant or the altar of incense.

Tallulah's sky overhead is an inverted chalice of gold. Every tree on Tallulah's hillside is a choir loft of music. Every stretch of Tallulah's landscape is a garden of incense. Here the Father with prodigal hand has bestowed His organ thunders and His majestic robes.

Naught but a corporation without a soul would dare to defile a sanctuary upon which Jehovah has set His seal.

Even the robber barons of the Rhine looked with solemn awe upon the cataracts. The iniquitous water power trust which has seized the people's property at Tallulah, proposes to set up a golden calf where even the savage Indian worshipped the Great Spirit.

This soulless water power trust having seized property worth more than fifteen millions of dollars seeks to perpetrate desecration at which even the vandals of Italy would have hesitated. They destroyed the temples and arches and statues built by the Caesars and not the work of God.

This queen of water falls, which has been seized by an iniquitous water power trust in defiance of the laws of both God and man, and vies in majestic beauty with the far-famed cataract of the Niagara.

There is nothing to equal Tallulah in the snow-white chain of the great Rockies.

It has been pronounced the most wonderful of scenic marvels by travelers who have explored the Andes—who have penetrated into Asia as far as the distant Himalayas—and who have stood beyond the pyramids of Egypt and beside the cataracts of the Nile.

More weary of wing than Noah's dove, when it fluttered back to the windows of the ark, would be the bird which today would seek to find in either hemisphere of the globe, a spot where softer skies encircle greener landscapes or grander robes hide richer treasures than in the mountain gorge of majesty of this unrivaled Blue Ridge, where Tallulah's God-given song subdues the puny arrogance of man by bringing him face to face with the Mighty Maker.

The pirates and vandals who today seek the destruction of Tallulah sneeringly refer to those who have buckled on armor to save this richest natural asset of the Western world, as "maudlin sentimentalists who are out of place in this common sense age of the world."

God help this old planet when sentiment is strangled in the grasp of commercialism. Let the henchmen and hirelings of "Big Business" beware how they deride a term which is endeared by the most hallowed associations to the heart of the Anglo-Saxon.

Sentiment is the most powerful thing in the universe. It drives the engines and feeds the dynamos.

The same nameless charm that throws around a chimney stack the mysterious but potent spell which makes us willing to die for our hearthstones, is the cord of feeling spun of threads finer than any silk, which will grip one hundred millions of Americans like the cables of the great Eastern to Tallulah Falls.

Though the soil of the South is sown with the graves of a lost cause, the stars upon the flag of a reunited country are all the brighter, and the stripes of kindred upon the republic's flag are all the deeper, because of the blood of Southern heroes at Manassas, Chickamauga and Gettysburg.

This appeal is to the patriots of the stronger nation—the nation which has risen from the birth throes of Civil War.

This appeal is to the war-worn veterans and their descendants who followed Grant's mighty legions to victory, to help their countrymen in the land of the "lost cause" save to our great nation, the richest natural asset of the Western hemisphere.

The Anglo-Saxon valor of an American patriot whose fighting blood has been stirred by the unequal struggle of the Tallulah Falls Conservation Association with the soulless water power trust, has offered a prize of five hundred dollars for the best 2,000 word article on: "The Duty of the American Nation to Conserve Tallulah Falls."

The contest is open to every man, woman and child in America; the officers of the Tallulah Falls Conservation Association alone being barred from participation therein. The articles will be passed upon by five of the most distinguished scholars and authors of this country whose names will be announced within a few days.

Every article submitted must be in my office not later than June 1st, 1912.

Every article submitted must bear a fictitious name in order that the committee and officers of the Association may be in ignorance of the identity of the writer to relieve the award of any suspicion of partiality. Postoffice or street number and address of each contestant must be added beneath the fictitious name.

The successful article will be published in the leading American newspapers.

HELEN D. LONGSTREET, President Tallulah Falls Conservation Association, Gainesville, Ga.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here are Facts I Want You to Prove at My Risk

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, I do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

But, when the hair roots retain any life, I believe there is nothing that will so surely promote hair growth as with Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. To prove that statement, I promise to promptly return all the money you pay me for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, should it not please you.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic destroys the germs which are usually responsible for baldness. It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and, by promoting circulation, nourishing them.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic helps to relieve scalp irritation, to remove dandruff, to prevent the hair from falling out, and to promote an increased growth of hair. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1. Remember, you can obtain it only at my store—The Rexall Store. Thos. J. Chenoweth, corner of Second and Sutton streets.

WITH WOMEN VOTING, CALIFORNIA GOES WET

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9th.—Town elections throughout California yesterday, with prohibition as the main issue, and with women voting for the first time in most of the townships, apparently resulted in a victory for the "wets." Of the thirty-six towns reporting to-day twenty-one voted "wet." In almost every instance women candidates were defeated.

MAYSVILLE CITIZENS GLADLY TESTIFY AND CONFIDENTLY RECOMMEND DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voices in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Maysville citizen:

Mrs. Dora McElduff, Maysville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills did me a lot of good and I am glad to tell about it. I had been feeling poorly for some time, before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy and my back and head ached. I rested poorly and mornings I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Doan's Kidney Pills. I used them, and before long I was entirely better. I was able to sleep well and they improved my health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBura Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Radium Quest Interesting the Scientists

WASHINGTON.—Austria has not, according to the United States geological survey, a world monopoly in the production of radium, as was stated in a consular report from W. L. Lowmle of Carlsbad. This report recorded the purchase of the only two mines under private ownership producing the ores from which radium is made. The purchase price was stated to be $600,000, and to complete the world monopoly in radium by the Austrian government.

The geological survey announces that this monopoly is a myth. It is true that the Austrian mines and the Austrian government heretofore have furnished the bulk of the radium salts existing in the world, but at present radium is being manufactured in three other countries, including the United States.

Sweden is producing radium from kolin, the English are producing it from mines in Wales, and it is extracted also from ores brought from the United States. There is a large deposit of radium producing ore in western Colorado, and it is reported that some is being produced in Australia. The Colorado deposits produce uranium and vanadium, the latter an essential in making some of the new high-grade steel alloys. It is mined for the vanadium, but the ore carries two or three per cent. of uranium. Some idea can be had of the microscopic trace of radium in the original ore from the fact that ten tons of the uranium has to be handled to get between 20 or 30 milligrams of radium.

There are no very exact statistics of radium available, but the whole quantity in the world, according to the geological survey, is probably not over two or three ounces. As to the value, it is largely nominal like that of the biggest diamonds. It is worth whatever the holders can get for it. Sir William Ramsay, the head of the English corporation producing radium, said about a year ago that it was worth £30,000,000 sterling a pound. In his last report on the subject he had knocked off £10,000,000 sterling on this estimate, but a little variation like that was not thought to matter when there was no appreciable fraction of a pound of the stuff in existence.

What is more to the purpose in fixing the value is the fact that there are now several radium banks in the world where tubes containing a microscopic speck of radium are stored and rented out to physicians at $40 a day. Even then there is little known about the medical value of radium. It is known to be of value in treating lupus, which is a form of tuberculosis attacking the tissues, usually of the face.

Ancient Mummy for National Museum

QUARTERS for the famous African collection of Theodore Roosevelt are to be provided in the National museum at Washington, and work is proceeding at a lively rate. The National museum, together with the Smithsonian institution, will, in a few years, contain the most interesting collection in the world, not excepting that of the famous British museum in London.

Side by side with the regular progress in this field comes the report of an ancient mummy found in a newly opened tomb at Abydos in Egypt; and no sooner had the telegraph news reached Washington than a syndicate was formed to bring it on for exhibition in this country, reminding us of the day when Barnum alone was ready to expend money and effort to secure such curiosities, and discovered "the petrified giant man." Now there is an association of scientists and experts organized to secure these valuable ancient relics for the museum at Washington and those of other large American cities.

The latest mummy is from a tomb of the Twelfth Dynasty, which reaches back to the time of Shishak, who sacked Jerusalem in the time of Rehoboam. The skeleton of a woman is revealed with a necklace of beads about her throat and three scarabs, one of them a superb amethyst, on her left hand. The most remarkable thing is that the head retained its long, black hair, under which were ornaments of every description, including a nose-ring such as is still worn by the princess in British India.

In the land of the Pharaohs the tombs and funeral pomp of mummies give the story of a past civilization such as even the pyramids, the Sphinx and the tablets of countless pylons and statues have failed to preserve.

There is a wizardry and mystery about these "dealings with the dead." This teaching of the living at the hands of the ancient mummies always attracts and rivets the attention of the curious and learned, who love the mysterious lore and infinite variety of the "wisdom of the Egyptians."—News Letter.

Seeing Much Gold Makes Employees Ill

FEAR of the spread of the white plague and typhoid fever were relegated to the dusty past the other day, when it became known that a new ailment had seized upon the woman clerks of the treasury. So swift has been the disease in its progress that it has been necessary to establish an emergency room in the basement of the treasury, and an average of five cases a day are treated.

Currentitis is the name of the new enemy that has spread terror among the fair clerks. Its symptoms are an acute attack of dizziness, sharp pains in the neck, followed by a severe headache. So far, the medical profession of the District has been unable to determine whether the ailment is conveyed by germs.

Miss Iva Eichelberger, who is in charge of the new emergency room, has made a study of the cases brought under her observation. Miss Eichelberger was surprised to see the great number of young woman clerks who would stumble into her room, gasp for a bottle of smelling salts and then fling themselves upon a couch, complaining of racking headaches, necks stiff as boards, and a dizzy sensation.

After a brief treatment, they would recover and go back to their desks. It was then that Miss Eichelberger suggested to Chief Clerk Wilmett the installation of an emergency room, patterned after wards in hospitals, with white enameled cots, nurses' costumes for the matrons, and a full equipment of medicines.

Then the attention of Miss Eichelberger was turned toward the disease itself. Test tubes were purchased, with her own funds; a microscope was procured, and the midnight oil consumed. And this is what was revealed—that currentitis was caused by the glare of the piles of shimmering gold pieces and dazzling silver present in the treasury.

Green eyeshades now are being affected by many, and a falling off in the disease is noticeable. However, the emergency room will be retained.

Something "Dropped"; It Was a Hammer

AN ironworker, swinging between earth and sky from a steel beam on the top of the Munsey building, near Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, dropped a heavy riveting hammer shortly after noon the other day, and then had almost an attack of heart failure when he realized what that hammer would do if it hit some one on the street below.

Just as the ironworker dropped the implement, Judge J. A. C. Groner of Norfolk, president of the Benning Sand and Gravel company, was walking in front of the building, talking to his old friend, Judge R. A. Wade of San Francisco. They were stepping briskly along, about a foot and a half apart. Mr. Groner was saying:

"And let me tell you, judge, that when that Chicago convention gets going you're going to hear something drop."

B-H-H

The heavy riveting hammer shot downward so suddenly it appeared to be a solid shaft of black, so rapid was its flight. Just as the last word was out of Mr. Groner's mouth the hammer smacked against the sidewalk. It sounded like a rifle shot, and the two men didn't have a chance to dodge an inch.

The hammer, however, bounded high in the air and landed into the street, where it broke in two.

A few minutes later a scared ironworker appeared at the front door of the Munsey building.

"You didn't see anything of a hammer, did you?" he asked.

The vote cast was 2,788, about one fifth of the enrollment.

TOO MUCH STARCH

A Food Problem

An Asheville man tells how right food did that which medicines had failed to accomplish:

"For more than 15 years," he says, "I was afflicted with stomach trouble and intestinal indigestion, gas forming in stomach and bowels and giving me great distress. These conditions were undoubtedly due to the starchy food I ate, white bread, potatoes, etc., and didn't digest. I grew worse with time, till, 2 years ago, I had an attack which the doctor diagnosed as appendicitis. When the surgeon operated on me, however, it was found that my trouble was ulcer of the pancreas, instead of appendicitis.

"Since that time I have had several attacks, suffering greatly. The last attack was about three months ago, and I endured untold agonies.

"The doctor then said that I would have to eat less starchy stuff, so I began the use of Grape-Nuts food for I knew it to be pre-digested, and have continued same with most gratifying results. It has built me up wonderfully. I gained ten pounds in the first 8 weeks that I used Grape-Nuts; my general health is better than ever before, my brain is clearer and nerves stronger.

"For breakfast and dinner, each, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with cream, a small slice of dry toast, an egg soft boiled and a cup of Postum; and I make the evening meal on Grape-Nuts and cream alone—this gives me a good night's rest. I am well again." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.
